ANGRY SCOUT TROOP BEATS MAD PACIFIST

When William Thwing, who hates war, saw a group of Boy Scouts Marching down the street it made him so angry to see boys in uniform that he grabbed an American flag and stomped on it.

BOY SCOUTS IRKED

This made the Boy Scouts so angry that they proceeded to beat up Mr. Thwing. Several bystanders joined the Boy Scouts.

Later Thwing said: "I'm sorry now for what I did. I saw those Boy Scouts marching and it called up visions of war, and I am against war. I guess I just lost my head."

MILWAUKEE COLLEGE MEN ADVOCATE ROTC

This contest follows the district contests which were held April 26 for district eliminations, one in each of the seven Congressional Districts in the state. In these district contests approximately 100 teams of three boys each or 488 of the outstanding agricultural students selected from a total of approximately 7000 state vocational students participated.

FOURTEEN TEAMS ENTER

The fourteen highest teams in the district contests will compete here Saturday for the state championship title. WAIM Is Benefit To Clemson

Anderson Broadcasting Station
Features College Programs Daily

The majority of students at Clemson College are familiar with the history of WAIM, Anderson's recently inaugurated broadcasting station; however comparatively few students are thoroughly familiar with the opportunities the station offers Clemson and the type of programs which the college is presenting daily.

ON AIR DAILY

Clemson is allowed an hour's broadcast each day. The programs occur at eleven forty-five. Each school of the college is allotted an hour program each week. For example, the faculty of the School of Chemistry may have charge of one day's program, and the next day's program may be under the supervision of the members of the faculty of the School of Agriculture. These broadcasts are proving to be highly educational because each speaker is saying something significant, and each speaker is making his subject as interesting as possible.

STUDENTS TAKE PART

Although the programs so far have been conducted by the members of the faculty, plans have been under way to have the students themselves take an active part on Clemson's own radio presentation. The first program in which the students take a leading part will be broadcast tomorrow at the regular hour. Fifteen or twenty students of English under the supervision of Professor Lane will read Vachel Lindsay's poem "Congo". This well known poem which is a study of the Negro race is highly dramatic, and a reading of it by the students should prove to be a truly interesting program. The reading of this poem is an ambitious undertaking, and it is hoped that this program will inspire other students to become interested enough to aid in future broadcasts.

MILITARY DAY WILL BE HELD ON MAY 19

field, the freshman and sophomore platoons will form for a formal guard mount, the freshman platoon acting as the retiring guard and the sophomore platoon, as the new guard.

MEDAL PRESENTATION

Col. R. John West, Commandant, will present to the best drilled guide in each battalion a medal in the form of a silver eagle. To the outstanding freshman and sophomore of the entire regiment, awards are also to be made. The presentation of these medals is the result of a plan sponsored by the Clemson Chapter of the Scabbard and Blade, National Honorary Military Fraternity.

CROWDS EXPECTED

Visitors from a large area are expected for this day, which closes the Military activities at Clemson for the school year.

FOREIGN FIELDS

Deciding to enter foreign fields a few weeks after receiving his degree, Robertson secured a position at Honolulu, Hawaii, with the Star Bulletin, remaining there for a year and until 1928 was in the South Pacific Islands and with the Adelaide Daily News, Adelaide, Australia. Rounding out prolonged travel in the Pacific Ocean and the Far East, he corresponded from the Dutch East Indies, India, China, Malaysia, and Egypt through June, 1929.

ROVING SPIRIT

During his roving, Robertson had been writing for Travel and Asia magazines, and he was gaining prominence in his field by leaps and bounds. Thus, in July 1929, he accepted a call from the New York Herald-Tribune, and returned to America. Serving on the Herald-Tribune for five years, he was frequently sent to his old haunts as foreign correspondent, going on one occasion to South America, and on another being sent to Russia to write of labor conditions there. On this trip, however, an injury to his leg in Germany forestalled his plans for the Russia project, and he remained in Central Europe until his recovery, after which he returned to America.

Upon his return to the United States, Robertson was given a position on the staff of the Associated Press, and stationed in New York. In February of this year, he was transferred to Washington, where he is at present covering political situations.

POPULAR STUDENT

Ben is well known on the campus, being the son of B. F. Robertson, Class of '96, who is at present in the department of Chemical Analysis at the college. While attending Clemson, Ben Jr. was an outstanding student, being Editor-in-Chief of TAPS, Associate Editor of the CHRONICLE, President of the Agricultural Society, and Secretary and Treasurer of the Pickens County Club.

COLLEGE PAPER FINDS WHAT STUDENTS CARRY

What the college man and woman carries in his and her pocket has been found out by the St. Louis University News student publication here.

First of all, it was found that practically all men and women students carry handkerchiefs.

Of the women, 33 per cent carried cigars, and of the men, 28 per cent carried pipes.

The average woman student carried $3.77 with her, and the average man carried $2.69 with him.

Combs were carried by 66 per cent of the women and 57 per cent of the men.

Thirty-five per cent of the men carried nail files and not a single woman carried such an article.

Tigers Add Baseball Cup To Championship List

Ozzie Nelson Was Brilliant Scholar, Athlete, At Rutgers

Famed Orchestra Leader Worked Way Through College Playing in Band

SINGS WITH HILLIARD

By J. C. Wilkinson

On a crisp fall day in the late 1920's, a wistful youth who was destined to become famous as a radio singer and band leader entered the portals of dear old Rutgers. A well-built fellow, handsome, intelligent, and with a pleasing personality, the youth, known as Ozzie Nelson to his comrades, proved the fallacy of that old theory that brains and brawn don't go together. As the months passed, he rose from an obscure freshman to the exalted position of campus hero. Young Nelson was a star quarterback, a boxing champion, varsity swimmer, and lacrosse player. His accomplishments in scholastic fields were equally outstanding.

ATTENDS LAW SCHOOL

After Rutgers, Ozzie went to New Jersey Law School, continuing to earn his own way playing every night with an orchestra at a nearby carnival. With a law degree in his pocket he sat down and thought about his career—balanced the advantages of law against music. Fortunately for the dance lovers of the nation, music won.

ORGANIZES BAND

Carrying his campus versatility into his work, Ozzie organized a band and began playing at private parties. College proms and debutant dances built up a reputation for him so quickly that he was soon playing at one of the larger New York hotels and broadcasting.

UNUSUAL SINGING

Not satisfied just to stay at the top Ozzie developed his unusual style of singing. All his spare time went into concentrated thinking on how to make his band different from the usual run. He mastered every instrument in the band and learned to sing every type of song from a hot Harlem ditty to a sentimental ballad. His comedy and novelty numbers have become well known to radio audiences.

LOVELY HARRIET HILLIARD

From his first day as an orchestra leader Ozzie has been looking for something distinct and smart in the presentation of his music. He found the answer to his prayer in the personage of Miss Harriet Hilliard. Harriet and Ozzie were the first boy and girl ever to sing duets with a dance orchestra.

STATE TENNIS MEET STARTS HERE TODAY

Carolina, Citadel, Wofford, Erskine, P. C. and Furman Enter Tournament

HORTON DEFENDS TITLE

Beginning this morning at 10 o'clock and lasting through Saturday, the South Carolina Intercollegiate Tennis tournament will be run off with teams from seven schools competing for singles and doubles titles. The defending singles champion, Tate Horton of Clemson, is in readiness to retain his crown, while Stevens of Furman who, paired with Clinkscales, took the doubles championship last year is again ready for all competition and has as his partner this season Southern.

SEVEN TEAMS TO ENTER

Coach Hoke Sloan of the Tigers has all arrangements made for a smooth running meet with the following teams entered: Carolina, Citadel, Wofford, Erskine, P. C., Furman, and Clemson. Four men from each school will be entered in the singles matches and two in the doubles.

jor, Editor of THE TIGER, and President of the Calhoun Literary Society. He was also a member of the Block 'C' Club.

SIXTH CROWN

Clemson's 1934-35 state athletic competition has come to a close with the Tigers on the top rung of the Palmetto ladder as victor in six of eight possible South Carolina sport crowns. The 4-2 victory of Newberry College over the South Carolina Gamecock basebatters last Saturday conceded the sixth championship to the Tigers, Clemson having shown previous supremacy in football, basketball, boxing, swimming and track. The only two losses were in minor sports, tennis and golf. The tennis team did have a fine team, well worth state recognition, but losses to Furman and Carolina spoiled all chances of victory. The golfers have really done splendid work in comparison to the small amount of interest taken by the cadets. The team has worked hard but has had hard luck.

Newberry came through in the pinches and took advantage of Carolina's miscues, pushing across two runs in the opening of the first frame and one in both the third and eighth, while the Birds used two pitchers and were silenced after their two counters in the second inning. This loss of Carolina automatically put the Tigers at the top position, and the Newberry-Clemson game which was rained out last Friday did not have to be played off on Monday as was scheduled in case of a Gamecock win.

EDITORIAL

A CRYING NEED

ON THE PORTICO of the college chapel is a tablet to the women of the campus who served as nurses for the Clemson Cadets during the flu epidemic of 1918. We could just as appropriately erect a similar tablet to the ladies of the campus for their making it possible for the students of Clemson College to have their guests a place to stay. Even though living conditions on the Clemson campus are as crowded as they are in barracks, through their work and inconvenience these ladies have made social life for the boys at Clemson possible and always have they been willing to cooperate with the cadets in placing their guests for dances and other social functions of the college.

Even with the willingness of the campus ladies to cooperate with members of the cadet corps during such social activities we do not have sufficient facilities to care for the increasing demands of the rapidly growing social life at Clemson. During all the most recent dances, there not being sufficient room on the campus for all the cadets' guests, it has been necessary for a large number of them to be placed in the Parish House. At other times it has been necessary to move cadets off the lower floor of one of the barracks in order to place all the guests. Obviously, this is no way to entertain visitors.

Under such conditions and in the face of an ever increasing amount of social life at Clemson College, time has come for a more convenient system to be devised for housing the guests of the students. With these circumstances in mind, it can plainly be seen that there has come the time when such an awkward situation will have to be remedied. In a few words, Clemson is in sore need of some place where the students can entertain guests and have a place for themselves to spend their leisure time. A hostess house would remedy this situation. Clemson is no longer a backwoods institution; it is fastly developing a more cultural atmosphere than has ever before been known in the history of the college. By having a hostess house on the campus, this development could be furthered to a much greater extent. With the building program which will soon be underway Clemson will increase in size; it will soon be one of the largest institutions in the South and with such an increase of size of the college there will also be an increase in demands for a more suitable system of housing guests.

Not only would such a building solve so difficult a question as to the placing of cadets' guests but it would provide a certain amount of everyday social life of which the Clemson student is now deprived. Activities of this type will be a constructive development in student life at Clemson.

The only practical solution to this problem would be the erection of a hostess house. And incidentally we would suggest that if and when such a building is erected it be dedicated to the ladies of the campus who for many years have made it possible for Clemson students to have a place for their visitors to stay and thus have made social life at Clemson possible.

TALK OF THE TOWN

DIogenES

From the first day we set foot on this campus we have been constantly hearing various souls referred to as "a man who doesn't give a damn." The thought that such a person existed intrigued us and we set off on what has been a long and disheartening search, the search for the man who doesn't care. Time after time we have traced down vague rumors only to have our hopes dashed when we discovered that our idol had feet which longed to walk in the shadow of a sabre. Of all the gentlemen of whom we have heard we think that a lad who went to McCauley, a prep school in Tennessee, a few years ago comes nearest to approaching our ideal. We have never met the gentleman, but wherever he is, we trust that someone will pat him on the back for us. He earned this paragraph when, one fine spring afternoon, he was strolling along as leading guide of the regiment as it marched on the drill field to form a parade for a number of noted visitors. While the unit was still in column of squads he gave way to irresistible impulse, suddenly reclined lengthwise in front of the leading squad, and chuckled heartily while his company piled up in a neat heap on top of him.

TALK OF THE TOWN

RESPECTFULLY STATED

The column dealing with the girl's colleges which sprang from our fertile brain a few weeks ago, has aroused quite a bit of comment. All of the female institutions referred to united in declaring it rank. But an enterprising young reporter on the Greenville Piedmont, who knows genius when he sees it, clipped it and topped it with glowing phrases of praise, bless his heart. A few disinterested college papers reprinted snatches of it with comment which was hardly flattering. The general consensus of opinion among the corps seems to be that it smelled. But, be that as it may, we feel called upon to explain why we chose the four listed. The reasons are comparatively simple. We chose Winthrop because it is so popular with the masses, Converse because we felt that the college owed them something since the student body once voted Clemson the most popular male college, G. W. C. because it is so convenient, and Brenau because it is inevitable.

TALK OF THE TOWN

EPILOGUE

It's that season of the year and this is the last issue of The Tiger many of you will see before next year so we feel called upon to pronounce benediction. For the past two years we have wielded our pen in this plot of type and we have grown rather attached to that battered cut at the top of the column. There is some doubt in our mind as to whether we shall influence the lives of the corps through this medium next year, and even if we do, we feel certain that the editor will insist that we burst forth with a new column heading, and this weekly masterpiece will never be the same without the blurred scene gracing it. So in a rather sentimental mood, we think that perhaps a few loose ends should be tied up.

In two years we have related many an anecdote, good, bad, or indifferent, and the principals of many of these tales have felt in that terrible moment when all was bared, that their lives were blasted. We are genuinely sorry if we have hurt anyone with our innocent maudering, but we firmly believe that most of the injured ones have long since found that our two readers paid little attention to the yarns we spun. Several gentlemen have turned up on Thursday afternoons with horse-whips in hand, it is true, but it is not because of them that we have kept, and intend to keep, our identity a more or less open secret. We can't see that our name at the top of the column would make it any better, and being something of an introvert we dislike the sight of our name in print.

So goodbye. We think now that this is our farewell effort, but when all the lads get back from the summer vacation and begin to tell all their noble lies, we will probably leap back into harness, and take up again what is beginning to look like our life's work.

WINTHROP JUNIOR-SENIOR EXPLOITS GARDEN MOTIF

The Winthrop Junior-Senior was held recently with marked success. The atmosphere of an old-fashioned Southern garden was impressively created with banks of roses, moss-hung trees and green carpets decorating the dining hall. The guests were entertained by the Jungaleers and several "song and dance" numbers.

The Block and Bridle club of Louisiana State University sponsored the annual spring horse show of the university on a ranch near the campus. Special features of the show were trick ponies and bronchos, a parade, and circus. Exhibitions of horsemanship and horses in every class were shown and a free barbecue lunch with drinks served the spectators.

WOMAN SUFFRAGE NOW MEMORY AT VANDERBILT

Vanderbilt has violated the cardinal principles of our present day constitution by refusing women suffrage in student election. The student governing body has recently, refused the coeds the privilege of voting in the school elections because of block voting by sororities. Incidentally, very incidentally, the Dean condemned the action. The CRIMSON-WHITE seems to get a tremendous 'kick' out of this bit of news.

SECOND ANNUAL STATE INDUSTRIAL EDUCATION CONTEST IS HELD HERE

The second annual statewide High School Education contest was held here on May 3 and 4 under state department of Education; Mr. H. S. Tate, head of the Department of Industrial Education, assisted by professors Booker, Klugh, Cartee, Asbill, Wilson, Philpot, Marshall, Lee, and Brock supervised the activities of the two-day program. The contest began with registration at noon Friday and ended Saturday with the awarding of prizes. Both Dr. Sikes and Mr. Booker made addresses during the occasion.

EIGHTY CONTESTANTS

More than eighty contestants representing some twenty schools took part in the contest which consisted of: Toolcraft, Textiles, Drawing, and Woodwork. Greenville High took the honors in Toolcraft and Drawing while Great Falls and Lockhart won high points in Textiles and Woodwork. Together with the contestants were their instructors many of whom are alumni of Clemson. Those in charge of the contest were well satisfied with its success and are looking forward to making it a still larger affair next year.

UNIVERSITY OF ALABAMA INAUGURATES INSTITUTE OF STATE AND LOCAL AFFAIRS

An Institute of State and Local Affairs is to be formed at the University of Alabama which will deal with social, economic, political, and publicity problems. The purpose of the organization is to generally aid the government of the state and counties in any way possible. One of the tasks set for this new group is to iron out a number of 'rough' places in the judicial system now holding sway in the state. This is the first organization of its kind hence it is the object of close observation by all those connected with the governing bodies.

STATISTICS PROVE WOMEN HAVE MAJORITY CHILDREN

The COLONNADE has found these startling statistics somewhere to prove a time honored belief. Yale graduates have been checked up on and found to have 1.4 children, while it has been conclusively shown that graduates of Vassar have 1.8 children. The statistics prove for once and for all time that women have more children than men. Don't say that!

THE COLONNADE

This intriguing trick of fate has been brought to our ears through the courtesy of the COLONNADE. The distinguished British society of Nassau, Bahamas, were slightly shocked to say the least when a finely groomed gentleman strolled in with bright green hair. It seems that the man had snow white hair of which he was very proud and used a "rinse" to keep it gleaming. When using this "rinse" he did not reckon with the salt content of the tap water; this salt content reacted with the "rinse" and died his hair

GAMECOCK BASEBALL NINE DOWNS BENGALS

Munn, Carolina, Stars; Swails And Kneec Pitch

The Bengals came out on the short end of a 2-0 score against Carolina in a pitchers' duel between Swails, lanky Tiger hurler, and Kneec, Bird southpaw, at Columbia last Friday afternoon; thus the Gamecocks obtained revenge for the setback the Bengals administered them last April.

Both pitchers allowed only 3 hits, but Munn, left-fielder and captain of the Gamecocks, proved a nemesis to Swails, as he was responsible for the only two runs scored. His double and score in the fifth inning broke the scoreless tie, and his homer in the seventh lengthened the margin.

Munn was the batting star of the game with two out of three, followed by Hinson who connected twice in four attempts.

Batteries: Clemson—Swails and Lee; Carolina—Kneec and Williamson.

With the preference of star athletes overwhelmingly for one cigarette, that cigarette has to be exceptionally mild! Its name is well known to you—Camel. Here's what an Olympic champion diver, Harold ("Dutch") Smith, says about Camels: "I've found a great deal of pleasure in Camels. They never interfere with my wind." Rip Collins, of the St. Louis Cardinals, says: "Here's the best proof I know that Camels are mild: I can smoke them steadily, and they never get my wind."

Rowland Dufton, of the New York A. C., says: "Squash is a game that requires A1 condition for tournament play. I've found that Camels are so mild I can smoke all I want, and they never upset my nerves or get my wind. That's what I call real mildness!"

Dick Shelton, world-champion steer dogger, says: "I must be sure the cigarettes I smoke are mild. Camels are very mild—don't get my wind." And those two brilliant golfers, Denny Shute and Helen Hicks, have come to the same conclusion—"Camels do not get my wind."

How this mildness is important to you too!

Camel smokers can smoke more—and enjoy smoking more, knowing that sports champions have found Camels so mild that they never jangle their nerves or get their wind.

BLOCK "C" TO INITIATE PROMINENT ATHLETES

FROM THE PRESS BOX

'Twas quite an unusual way of taking the state baseball championship by letting another team win it for us—nevertheless it's won. There were several major upsets this season among the teams. Newberry did some queer tricks in taking such league leaders as Carolina and Clemson into camp and then losing to those in the lower bracket, as did the Gamecocks and Tigers in making clear sweeps and then losing to Newberry.

It is shown by these Indian performances that there's nothing short about the "Berry" boys. Carolina did have hard luck in losing due to the numerous errors but the 4-2 loss was mighty sweet music in the ears of the cadets. This makes the sixth state title this year, which is quite a record.

It is apparent from news dispatches from Durham that our friends across the state line are planning on burning up that splendid track at Duke this week-end with teams from the University of N. C. Duke, and Maryland being the leading contenders for the Southern Conference crown. True those institutions have some extraordinary trackmen especially N. C., but Clemson placed third last year after tying for the state championship, so after the splendid season just finished the Tiger representatives should be able to do equally as well if not better.

Coach Howard and the boys left this morning for the Tarheel State in order to get there in time to limber up for the two-day grind before them. The following men are entered in the classic: Ford, Robinson, McMahan, Wall, Dillard, Herlong, Scott, Green, Carter, Bryce, Bryant,

CLUBROOMS IN YMCA
ARE IN GREAT DEMAND

During the past year, the Clemson Y has spent quite an appreciable amount purchasing furniture, draperies, curtains, rugs, and equipment to make the club rooms in the Y far more attractive than they have been for many years. The response of students and faculty folk alike has made these rooms very much in demand. Quite a number of campus people have used these club rooms for entertainment, that were larger than they could conveniently have in their homes. A great many student groups have been entertained at the Y for refreshments and quite a number have been entertained as guests of the Y for picture programs. Small dances and parties for faculty members and quite a number of Company dances sponsored by the cadets have served to make these rooms constantly in demand.

The lined lines are ready for the action taking place today, tomorrow, and Saturday on the local courts as the Palmetto net aces compete for the annual state championships in singles and doubles.

In admiring the singles trophy which was won last year by our Tate Horton, we began looking at the inscriptions engraved on it. The silver cup was given to the South Carolina Intercollegiate Tennis Association in 1906 by the City of Greenville and has been in circulation ever since except for the two years during the world wide conflict in '17 and '18 and a lapse of six years, from '27 to last year.

During that twenty-nine year period it has been won by Erskine, Carolina, P. C., Clemson, Wofford, and Furman. The first Tiger champ was J. P. Erwin, who took the title in 1911 and '12. Clemson failed to win again until '20 but took it three years in a row after that. J. B. Fitzgerald was champ in '20, W. E. Hines in '21, and W. H. Gray in '22 and '23.

Bill Dillard, perhaps the most widely known of Clemson athletes, is planning on returning to Clemson next fall to continue his studies and will probably assist the coaching staff in their grid practices. Since Bill participated in football, basketball, and track for three years, the only sport for which he will be eligible is baseball. Coach Neely said that the Six-Miler would more than likely don the diamond togs next spring.

MODEL FOR FAMOUS
PICTURE STILL ALIVE

You college folk who have been used to thinking of September Morn as some medieval young woman standing at the pump with only her birthday clothes for warmth, will be interested to know that the girl who posed for the now famous painting is still alive, the wife of a wealthy Frenchman and the mother of three children.

NAME KEPT SECRET

Her name is still a secret, known only to herself and Paul Chabas, the painter, because she thinks it might be a little embarrassing to have her friends know she ever posed in the nude.

MANY LETTERS

Chabas says he is always receiving letters from people who have heard September Morn is now living in poverty and saying they would like to help her out.

Chabas adds that while millions have been made from the painting, he hasn't made any of it.
